To Whom It May Concern,

I am writing to express my strong support for launching a dedicated humanitarian satellite by Common Space, as proposed by Bill Greer and Rhiannan Price. As someone who has spent my career in the Earth Observation industry and representing an organization that is trying to have a positive impact on the planet, our collective work would be greatly enhanced through accessing EO data reliably and sharing/licensing it openly. This proposed capability would be unique, would unlock life-saving humanitarian missions, and would have a huge overall net-positive effect on Earth.

As I've personally documented here, finding and licensing high-resolution data is extremely time-consuming and frustrating. The license restrictions alone are a deterrent for many end users and, importantly, humanitarian organizations. The objectives and goals of Common Space align closely with improving the ease of access to satellite data, and I believe that its successful implementation will lead to better outcomes in the field, saving lives and providing humanitarian assistance to those most vulnerable. With current cutbacks from the United States Government, the needs today are more urgent than ever.

I wholeheartedly endorse this project and encourage others to support it as well. Please feel free to contact me if you need any additional information or would like to discuss this further.

Thank you for considering my support.

Sincerely,

Kevin Bullock
